BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Marc A. Hein was born July 18, 1949 in Lawrence, Kansas. He lived in the Kansas City area most of his life, attending Rockhurst High School, from which he was graduated in 1967. After graduating from the University of Kansas with a degree in architecture, he later became a registered architect in the state of Missouri, and was a member of the American Institute of Architects. He served on the boards of the Kansas City Design Excellence Awards in 1992, and of The Whole Person, Inc. in 1982-84.

Hein was also very active in the Kansas City gay community. He was a member of the Heartland Men's Chorus in 1989-90, of ACT-UP KC, and from 1989-1993 worked within GALA, Gay and Lesbian Awareness, an organization whose goal was to raise awareness of and pride within the gay and lesbian community. One of his first goals as a GALA member was to revive the Kansas City Pride Parade. He put together 300 marchers in 1990, growing to over 1,200 the next year, and by 1992 it was the only parade in the United States to span two states. As a result of these visible efforts, he was appointed to the Mayor's Commission on Gay and Lesbian Concerns in 1991.

In 1988 Hein was diagnosed with AIDS. After his first AIDS-related sick leave, he was fired from his architect job in 1989. This enabled him to spend time on his GALA-related activities, and freed him to express himself in print. He regularly submitted letters to the editor in The Alternate News, Kansas City's primary gay and lesbian community publication at the time, and the magazine eventually gave him his own column. This was followed by a column in a competing magazine, The Current News, for which he wrote "On the Other Hand" through 1992.

Hein maintained a positive yet realistic attitude after his diagnosis. A long-distance runner most of his life, he continued to run marathons after learning of his illness. He trained for the 1990 Gay Games, held in Vancouver, British Columbia, and was the only person with AIDS to ever complete a marathon in the Games. He also planned to run in the 1994 New York Gay Games.

Marc Hein succumbed to AIDS on March 30, 1993. He was 43.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

The Marc Hein Collection was gifted to LaBudde Special Collections in July, 2010 by his sister, Louanne Hein. The collection features a variety of writing by Hein, including samples of his two published columns, a myriad of correspondence, and two diaries. He kept three separate scrapbooks: one of his writing; one featuring his Pride-related activities; and one documenting his Gay Games experience. The collection also contains an array of newspaper and magazine clippings, detailing events in which he was involved locally and at the Gay Games, and some which center on AIDS research. The collection also includes an original drawing by Hein, a poster of the logo he created for the 1989 Pride Festival, held in Southmoreland Park.

SERIES NOTES

SERIES I: BIOGRAPHICAL

Series I contains material related to the life of Marc Hein, including various certificates he was awarded throughout his life and a 1992 Pitch cover story about his life as a person with AIDS and a gay activist. More poignantly, this series features the paperwork surrounding his death, including his obituary, death certificate, funeral service receipt, and condolence cards sent to his mother, Angela.

SERIES II: SCRAPBOOKS

This series is comprised of three scrapbooks kept by Hein. The first, labeled “Commentary...On the Other Hand”, contains copies of his letters to various lesbian and gay publications as well as his columns he wrote for the Alternate News and Current News. The second scrapbook, which he titled “Gay Games”, contains material related to his experience as a Gay Games athlete. The third scrapbook – “Gay Pride Articles” – features not only his writing about Gay Pride events but the paperwork associated with sponsoring public parades, most notably correspondence with Westwood, KS city officials regarding their refusal to allow the 1992 parade to start from their city.

SERIES III: DIARIES

This series is made up of two diaries kept by Hein, dating from 1989-1993, which primarily detail his efforts to train for marathon running and document his medical condition and treatments.

SERIES IV: NEWSPAPER AND MAGAZINE CLIPPINGS

Series III contains various clippings related to the Gay Games, gay rights issues, and AIDS issues.

SERIES V: PUBLICATIONS

This series contains three publications: two issues of Diseased Pariah News (1990 and 1991), a self-published ‘zine geared toward HIV+ people and persons with AIDS, and a copy of the Seattle Gay News from 1991.

SERIES VI: MISCELLANEOUS

This series is a catch-all for material that was out of the scope of the other series. Most notably it contains a collection of different types of buttons and badges on different subjects such as Kansas City Pride, AIDS awareness, and politics. It also contains an original drawing by Hein, a poster of the 1989 Kansas City Gay Pride Festival logo.
